

12 Indicators of Thriving

From social science research, The Thrive Foundation has detailed 12 Indicators of Thriving. These are the skills and attributes that are necessary to reach one's full potential.

The 12 Indicators of Thriving fall within six domains as defined by Dr. Richard Lerner of Tufts Institute for Applied Research in Youth Development. Reaching excellence in the domains of character, caring, contribution, confidence, connection, and competence, establishes a youth's path to his or her full potential.
